1. OVERVIEW AND BASIS OF ACCOUNTING:

The operating losses incurred by the Company from 1993 to 1997 significantly reduced its net worth and liquidity position. As a result, in 1998, the Company sold its core credit insurance and related products business, which had been its only remaining business operation, following the sales in 1994 and 1997 of all of its universal life insurance business and the 1996 sale of its auto auction business. Since the sale of its credit insurance business, the Company's revenues, benefits and expenses have consisted principally of (i) fee revenues received from Life of the South Corporation (LOTS), which acquired the Company's credit insurance business and its customer accounts, (ii) investment income on remaining assets and (iii) corporate expenses. However, see Note 4 for information concerning the discontinuation of the fee revenues .

Edgar Filing: CONSUMERS FINANCIAL CORP - Form 10-Q

On March 24, 1998, the Company's shareholders approved a Plan of Liquidation and Dissolution, as discussed in Note 2 below. Accordingly, the Company adopted a liquidation basis of accounting for periods subsequent to March 24, 1998. Under the liquidation basis of accounting, assets are stated at their estimated net realizable values and liabilities are stated at their anticipated settlement amounts. Prior to March 25, 1998, the Company reported the results of its operations and its asset and liability amounts using accounting principles applicable to going concern entities.

The consolidated financial statements include the accounts of Consumers Financial Corporation and its wholly-owned subsidiary, Consumers Life Insurance Company (Consumers Life).

In the opinion of management, the accompanying unaudited consolidated financial statements contain all adjustments (consisting only of normal recurring items) necessary to present fairly the Company's consolidated net assets in liquidation as of June 30, 2001 and the consolidated changes in its net assets for the six and three month periods ended June 30, 2001 and 2000.

Certain information and footnote disclosures normally included in financial statements prepared in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles have been condensed or omitted. These financial statements should be read in conjunction with the financial statements and notes thereto included in the Company's 2000 Form 10-K.

The changes in net assets for the six and three month periods ended June 30, 2001 are not necessarily indicative of the changes to be expected for the full year.

2. DISCONTINUED OPERATIONS AND PLAN OF LIQUIDATION:

At a Special Meeting of Shareholders held on March 24, 1998, the Company's shareholders approved the sale of the Company's in force credit insurance business as well as a Plan of

The Company eventually intends to distribute its remaining cash to its preferred shareholders. The Company does not expect to be able to make any payment to its common shareholders.

3. INCOME TAXES:

Deferred income taxes reflect the net tax effects of temporary differences between the carrying amounts of assets and liabilities for financial reporting purposes and the amounts used for income tax purposes. At June 30, 2001 and December 31, 2000, the Company had no material deferred tax liabilities and only one material deferred tax asset relating to net operating loss carry forwards. This deferred tax asset, which totaled $1,863,000 and $1,869,000 at June 30, 2001 and December 31, 2000, respectively, has been fully offset by a valuation allowance.

4. COMMITMENTS AND CONTINGENCIES:

Reinsured risks would give rise to liability to the insurance subsidiary only in the event that the reinsuring company is unable to meet its obligations under the reinsurance agreements in force.

In November 1997, the Company and a third party reinsurer were sued by a former general agency with whom the Company had a partnership agreement. The partnership agreement provided that the agency would market universal life insurance business for the Company, pursuant to specific criteria established by the Company, and would also be entitled to a share of the profits, if any, which arose from the business produced. The claimant is seeking monetary damages to compensate it for the Company's alleged failure to share profits and for other alleged losses resulting from the Company's rejection of policy applications involving unacceptable risks. While management believes this claim is without merit and intends to vigorously defend the Company in this matter, the ultimate outcome of this claim cannot be determined at this time. The Company has filed two counterclaims against this agency seeking damages for losses the Company sustained as a result of the agency's alleged breach of the partnership agreement and to recover an unpaid loan made to the agency. In December 2000, the trial for the Company's claim for recovery of the unpaid loan took place, and, in January 2001, the court awarded a $90,000 judgment in favor of the Company.

During 1999, a dispute arose between the Company and LOTS relating to the payment of investment income on the assets which were transferred to LOTS in connection with the sale of the in force credit insurance business. Subsequent to the closing of the transaction, LOTS claimed that the Company owed it approximately $1,400,000 for investment earnings on the amount transferred. In October 1999, LOTS informed the Company that it would begin withholding from the Company the fee revenue payments which were contractually due to the Company from the sale of the credit insurance accounts. As of September 30, 2000, fee revenues totaling $421,000 had been withheld by LOTS. In October 2000, the parties settled this dispute. Pursuant to the terms of the settlement agreement, LOTS paid the Company $250,000 in settlement of all prior amounts withheld and in lieu of any future fee revenue payments. In addition, the Company agreed to permit LOTS to withdraw $500,000 from a contingency fund established by the parties at the time of the sale.

Certain claims, suits and complaints arising in the ordinary course of business have been filed or are pending against the Company or its subsidiary. In the opinion of management, based on opinions of legal counsel, adequate reserves, if deemed necessary, have been established for these matters, and their outcome will not have a significant effect on the net assets or changes in net assets of the Company or its subsidiary. The Company has taken certain income tax positions in previous years that it believes are appropriate. If such positions were to be successfully challenged by the Internal Revenue Service, the Company could incur additional income taxes as well as interest and penalties. Management believes that the ultimate outcome of any such challenges will not have a material effect on the Company's financial statements.

5. REINSURANCE:

The sale of the credit insurance business of Consumers Life was completed pursuant to an indemnity reinsurance agreement with the reinsurer. The reinsurance transactions through which Consumes Life and its former subsidiaries sold their individual life insurance business included the use of both indemnity and assumption agreements. Consumers Life remains contingently liable for insurance risks ceded under indemnity agreements, while such risks are legally transferred to the reinsurer when assumption reinsurance agreements are utilized.

Effective December 31, 2000, Consumers Life converted one of its four remaining indemnity agreements to assumption reinsurance, thereby eliminating the contingent risk on that block of reinsured business. As of January 1, 2001, a similar conversion to assumption reinsurance was completed on another indemnity agreement. The conversion of the remaining two indemnity agreements is currently in process. The elimination of these indemnity agreements is expected to facilitate the sale of Consumers Life, and will also permit the dissolution of Consumers Life in the event a sale of the subsidiary cannot be completed.

6. REDEEMABLE PREFERRED STOCK:

The terms of the Company's 8.5% redeemable preferred stock require the Company to make annual payments to a sinking fund. The first such payment was due in July 1998. The preferred stock terms also provide that any purchase of preferred shares by the Company will reduce the sinking fund requirements by the redemption value of the shares acquired. As a result of the Company's purchases of preferred stock prior to 1998, no sinking fund payment was due in 1998, and the required payment due for 1999 was reduced from $550,000 to $414,610. The purchase of 18,000 preferred shares in 1999, 7,400 shares in 2000, and 1,447 shares in 2001 has further reduced the 1999 sinking fund deficiency to $146,140. On July 1, 2000, an additional $550,000 sinking fund payment became due but was not paid. Consequently, at June 30, 2001, the total sinking fund deficiency was $696,140. On July 1, 2001, another $550,000 sinking fund payment became due but was also not paid. Because of the Company's inability to make the sinking fund payments, it may not pay any dividends to common shareholders and may not purchase, redeem or otherwise acquire any common shares.

ITEM 2. MANAGEMENT'S DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS OF FINANCIAL CONDITION AND RESULTS OF OPERATIONS

A review of the significant factors which affected the Company's net assets in liquidation at June 30, 2001 and the changes in its net assets in liquidation for the six and three month periods ended June 30, 2001 is presented below. Information relating to 2000 is also presented for comparative purposes. This analysis should be read in conjunction with the Consolidated Financial Statements and the related Notes appearing elsewhere in this Form 10-Q and in the Company's 2000 Form 10-K.

The Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995 provides a "safe harbor" for forward-looking statements. This Form 10-Q may include forward-looking statements which reflect the Company's current views with respect to future events and financial performance. These forward-looking statements are identified by their use of such terms and phrases as "intends", "intend", "intended", "goal", "estimate", "estimates", "expects", "expect", "expected", "project", "projected", "projections", "plans", "anticipates", "anticipated", "should", "designed to", "foreseeable future", "believe", "believes" and "scheduled" and similar expressions. Readers are cautioned not to place undue reliance on these forward-looking statements which speak only as of the date the statement was made. The Company undertakes no obligation to publicly update or revise any forward-looking statements, whether as a result of new information, future events or otherwise.

OVERVIEW

At the Special Meeting of Shareholders held on March 24, 1998, the Company's preferred and common shareholders approved the sale of the Company's credit insurance and related products business, which was the Company's only remaining business operation. In connection with the sale of its in force credit insurance business, the Company also sold its credit insurance customer accounts and one of its life insurance subsidiaries. At the Special Meeting, the shareholders also approved a Plan of Liquidation and Dissolution, pursuant to which the Company is now liquidating its remaining assets so that it can pay or provide for all of its liabilities and distribute its remaining cash to its preferred shareholders. It is unlikely that any cash will be available for distribution to the common shareholders.

As a result of the approval of the Plan of Liquidation and Dissolution, the Company adopted a liquidation basis of accounting in its financial statements for periods subsequent to March 24, 1998. Under liquidation accounting rules, assets are stated at their estimated net realizable values and liabilities are stated at their anticipated settlement amounts. Prior to March 25, 1998, the Company reported the results of its operations and its asset and liability amounts using accounting principles applicable to going concern entities.

Edgar Filing: CONSUMERS FINANCIAL CORP - Form 10-Q

As discussed below, the Company's net assets in liquidation, which represent the amount available for distribution to common shareholders, were reduced to zero in 1999. All decreases in the Company's net assets since that time have reduced the estimated liquidation value of the preferred stock. Similarly, any future decreases during the remainder of the liquidation period will continue to reduce the amount available for distribution to the preferred shareholders. During the first six months of 2001, this reduction totaled $352,000 compared to a reduction in the same period of 2000 of

Consumers Financial Corporation
Form 10-Q

June 30, 2001

$382,000. The declines in both periods were, in part, the result of preferred shareholder dividends, which totaled $193,000 and $196,000 in 2001 and 2000, respectively, and an excess of benefits and expenses over revenues. For the six months ended June 30, 2001, the Company's excess of benefits and expenses over revenues was $117,000 compared to excess benefits and expenses of $56,000 in the first half of 2000. In addition, in the first half of 2000, the estimated liability for the Company's under funded Pension Plan (which was terminated later in the year) was increased by $225,000.

RESULTS OF OPERATIONS AND CHANGES IN NET ASSETS

Since the sale of its remaining insurance business and the adoption of the Plan of Liquidation, the Company's revenues, benefits and expenses have consisted principally of (i) fee revenues from the sale of the Company's customer accounts, (ii) investment income on existing assets and (iii) corporate expenses, primarily salaries, pension expense and professional fees. A discussion of the material factors which affected the Company's changes in net assets in liquidation for the six and three month periods ended June 30, 2001 and 2000 is presented below.

SIX AND THREE MONTHS ENDED JUNE 30, 2001

As indicated above, since the Company has no net assets available for common shareholders, all decreases in net assets must be deducted from the estimated liquidation value of the Company's preferred stock. In the first six months of 2001, the estimated liquidation value of the preferred stock declined by $352,000. As a result, at June 30, 2001, the 454,614 shares of preferred stock outstanding had an estimated liquidation value of $2,953,000, or $6.50 per share.

The decrease in the liquidation value of the preferred stock in the first six months of 2001 was primarily due to $193,000 in dividends to the preferred shareholders, a $53,000 reduction in the estimated realizable value of certain assets and an excess of benefits and expenses over revenues of $117,000. The excess of benefits and expenses over revenues is partially attributable to the fact that the Company is no longer receiving any fee revenues from the sale of its credit insurance customer accounts, as discussed below. In the first half of 2000, the Company reported $132,000 in fee revenues. In addition, the Company incurred approximately $37,000 in legal fees during the period in connection with several ongoing litigation matters.

For the three months ended June 30, 2001, the estimated liquidation value of the preferred stock declined by $221,000. All of the factors which affected the liquidation value during the first six months of the year were also factors in the decrease which occurred in the second quarter. Preferred shareholder dividends totaled $96,000, the reduction in the estimated realizable value of certain assets was $53,000 and benefits and expenses exceeded revenues by $79,000.

The Company is no longer receiving any fee revenues from the purchaser of its credit insurance customer accounts. In order to settle a dispute with the purchaser regarding the payment of investment income on the assets transferred to the purchaser in the sale of the Company's in force insurance business, in October 2000, the Company agreed to accept a $250,000 cash payment in settlement of all prior amounts due from the purchaser and in lieu of any future fee revenue payments. In the six and three month periods ended June 30, 2000, the Company reported fee revenues of $132,000 and $78,000, respectively.

Consumers Financial Corporation
Form 10-Q

Page 10
June 30, 2001

SIX AND THREE MONTHS ENDED JUNE 30, 2000

In the first six months of 2000, the estimated liquidation value of the preferred stock decreased by $382,000 as a result of (i) a $225,000 increase in the estimated liability for the Company's under funded pension plan, (ii) $196,000 in preferred shareholder dividends and (iii) an excess of benefits and expenses over revenues of $56,000. Expenses in the first half of the year included approximately $94,000 in audit, legal and actuarial fees and $50,000 in pension expense. A significant portion of the legal fees during this period related to the now-settled fee revenue dispute referred to earlier. The Company's investment income benefitted from the collection of about $40,000 in past due and unaccrued interest on a non performing mortgage loan, which was repaid in full following the sale of the property. Partially offsetting the reductions listed above were increases attributable to the reduction of certain liabilities to their estimated settlement amounts and other miscellaneous increases.

The estimated liquidation value of the preferred stock decreased by $255,000 in the second quarter of 2000. This decline was due to the $225,000 increase in the pension plan liability described above and to preferred shareholder dividends of $98,000. These decreases were offset, in part, by an excess of revenues over benefits and expenses for the quarter of $28,000.

ESTIMATED NET EXPENSES AND OTHER CHANGES IN NET ASSETS DURING LIQUIDATION PERIOD

The time frame for completing the liquidation of the Company is dependent upon a number of factors, the most significant of which is the sale or liquidation of the Company's life insurance subsidiary. Most of the assets which will be available for distribution to the preferred shareholders are held by the subsidiary and are restricted as to their use by state insurance regulations. Furthermore, additional shareholder value could be generated from the sale of the subsidiary because of the value of its 25 state insurance licenses. The Company is also a defendant in several lawsuits which must be settled or resolved in court. While management believes the plaintiffs' claims in these cases are without merit, the ultimate outcome of these matters cannot be determined at this time. The Company may also be entitled to all or a portion of the assets in a contingency fund established by the Company and the purchaser of its credit insurance business based on the claims experience of the in force credit insurance business from October 1, 1997 to September 30, 2002. However, based on the claims experience to date, as provided by the purchaser, it does not appear likely that the Company will receive any portion of the contingency fund.

Edgar Filing: CONSUMERS FINANCIAL CORP - Form 10-Q

As a result of the foregoing, a final distribution cannot be made to the preferred shareholders until (i) the life subsidiary is either sold (and the time period of any required indemnifications given to the purchaser has expired) or liquidated, (ii) the Company has resolved all remaining litigation matters and (iii) a determination is made regarding the amount of any contingency fund distribution which might be payable to the Company.

Based on current estimates, management believes that the Company's future expenses and other changes in net assets, including preferred shareholder dividends, will exceed its revenues during the remainder of the liquidation period by approximately $800,000 to $900,000. Actual revenues and expenses and

Form 10-Q

June 30, 2001

other net asset changes could vary significantly from the present estimates due to uncertainties regarding (i) when the remaining non liquid assets, particularly the stock of the life insurance subsidiary, will be liquidated, (ii) when the distribution to the preferred shareholders will be made, (iii) the level of actual expenses which will be incurred and (iv) the ultimate resolution of all current contingencies and any contingencies which may arise in the future.

FINANCIAL CONDITION

CAPITAL RESOURCES

Given its plans to liquidate and eventually dissolve, the Company has made no commitments for capital expenditures and does not intend to make any such commitments in the future. For the six months ended June 30, 2001, the Company's cash and invested assets decreased by $167,000, from $3,479,000 at the beginning of the year to $3,312,000 at June 30, 2001. As indicated above, the decrease is principally the result of the preferred shareholder dividends and the excess of benefits and expenses over revenues.

Invested assets at June 30, 2001 consisted principally of (i) U.S. Treasury Notes, owned by the Company's insurance subsidiary, which are on deposit with numerous state insurance departments in connection with licensing requirements, (ii) one mortgage loan, which is scheduled to be paid in full by June 2002 and (iii) short-term investments, principally money market funds.

As discussed in Note 5 of the Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements appearing elsewhere in this Form 10-Q, as of January 1, 2001, the Company's insurance subsidiary converted one of its remaining indemnity reinsurance agreements to assumption reinsurance, thereby eliminating the contingent insurance risk on this block of reinsured business. As a result, the Reinsurance Recoverable asset and the corresponding liability for Future Policy Benefits relating to this block of business were eliminated from the June 30, 2001 amounts appearing on the Consolidated Statements of Net Assets in Liquidation. At December 31, 2000, the asset and liability amounts for this block of business totaled approximately $1,023,000.

LIQUIDITY

Historically, the Company's subsidiaries met most of their cash requirements from funds generated from operations, while the Company generally relied on its principal operating subsidiaries to provide it with sufficient cash funds to maintain an adequate liquidity position. As a result of the Company's decision to sell its remaining operations, liquidate all of its net assets and distribute cash to its shareholders, the Company's principal sources of cash funds are investment income and proceeds from the sales of non liquid assets. These funds must be used to settle remaining liabilities as they become due, to pay expenses until the Company is dissolved and to pay dividends on the preferred stock until a final distribution is made to the preferred shareholders.

The adequacy of the Company's liquidity position during the remainder of the liquidation period will be principally dependent on its ability to sell its remaining non liquid assets and the timing of such sales, as well as on the level of expenses the Company must incur during the liquidation period. The Company's liquidity is particularly dependent on its ability to sell its life

Form 10-Q

insurance subsidiary, since all dividends and other distributions to the Company from that subsidiary must be approved by the Delaware Insurance Department.

SINKING FUND FOR REDEEMABLE PREFERRED STOCK

The terms of the Company's 8.5% redeemable preferred stock require the Company to make annual payments to a sinking fund. The first such payment was due in July 1998. The preferred stock terms also provide that any purchase of preferred shares by the Company will reduce the sinking fund requirements by the redemption value of the shares acquired. As a result of the Company's purchases of preferred stock prior to 1998, no sinking fund payment was due in 1998, and the required payment due for 1999 was reduced from $550,000 to $414,610. The purchase of 18,000 preferred shares in 1999, 7,400 shares in 2000, and 1,447 shares in 2001 has further reduced the 1999 sinking fund deficiency to $146,140. On July 1, 2000, an additional $550,000 sinking fund payment became due but was not paid. Consequently, at June 30, 2001, the total sinking fund deficiency was $696,140. On July 1, 2001, another $550,000 sinking fund payment became due but was also not paid. Because of the Company's inability to make the sinking fund payments, it may not pay any dividends to common shareholders and may not purchase, redeem or otherwise acquire any common shares.

INFLATION

Because of the Company's current plans to liquidate its assets, pay all of its liabilities, distribute any remaining cash to its shareholders and ultimately dissolve within the next 12 to 18 months, the effects of inflation on the Company are not material.

ITEM 3. QUANTITATIVE AND QUALITATIVE DISCLOSURE ABOUT MARKET RISK

The requirements for certain market risk disclosures are not applicable to the Company because, at June 30, 2001 and December 31, 2000, the Company qualifies as a "small business issuer" under Regulation S-B of the Federal Securities Laws. A small business issuer is defined as any United States or Canadian issuer with revenues or public float of less than $25 million.

PART II. OTHER INFORMATION

ITEM 1. LEGAL PROCEEDINGS

Except for the matters discussed in Note 4 of the Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements included elsewhere in this Form 10-Q, neither the registrant nor its subsidiary are involved in any pending legal proceedings other than routine litigation incidental to the normal conduct of its business nor have any such proceedings been terminated during the three months ended June 30, 2001.

ITEM 2. CHANGES IN SECURITIES

During the three months ended June 30, 2001, there have been no limitations or qualifications, through charter documents, loan agreements or otherwise, placed upon the holders of the registrant's common or preferred stock to receive dividends. As discussed in Note 6 of the Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements appearing elsewhere in this Form 10-Q, the registrant is prohibited from paying dividends on its common stock so long as the deficiency in the sinking fund for the preferred stock exists.

ITEM 3. DEFAULTS UPON SENIOR SECURITIES

As of June 30, 2001, the registrant was not in default in the payment of principal, interest or in any other manner on any indebtedness and was current with all its accounts. In addition, there was no arrearage in the payment of dividends on its preferred stock. However, see Note 6 of the Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements appearing elsewhere in this Form 10-Q for information regarding the deficiency in the sinking fund for the preferred stock.

ITEM 4. SUBMISSION OF MATTERS TO A VOTE OF SECURITY HOLDERS

No matters were submitted to a vote of the stockholders of the registrant during the three months ended June 30, 2001.

ITEM 5. OTHER INFORMATION

On August 3, 2001, the registrant sent a request for proposal letter to several investor groups which have expressed an interest in acquiring a controlling interest in the registrant's common stock. Although the registrant is in the process of completing a plan of liquidation and dissolution previously approved by its shareholders, the registrant's Board of Directors is willing to consider a transaction of this type in lieu of the planned liquidation and dissolution because it has the potential to produce future value for the common shareholders, who are projected to receive nothing under the planned liquidation. Any such transaction, however, must offer some protection for the preferred shareholders. The Board also expects to receive and will review proposals from other interested parties in addition to those who received the initial request for proposal letter.
