ITEM 9 - REGULATION FD DISCLOSURE

On February 28, 2003, Weyerhaeuser Company a press release stating the following:

FEDERAL WAY, Wash. - Steven R. Rogel, Weyerhaeuser Company chairman, president and chief executive officer, today announced that Jack P. Taylor Jr. has accepted the role of senior vice president, Timberlands.

Edgar Filing: WEYERHAEUSER CO - Form 8-K

Taylor replaces Richard E. Hanson, who was recently promoted to chief operating officer. In his new role, Taylor, who reports to Hanson, is responsible for the management of Weyerhaeuser's North American timberland operations. Weyerhaeuser operates 7.3 million acres of privately managed forests in the United States. In Canada, the company holds renewable, long-term licenses on 34.7 million acres of forestland and owns 664,000 acres.

"I'm pleased that we were able to persuade Jack to delay his retirement for two years in order to retain his leadership during a transition period," Hanson said. "Jack brings deep operating experience to the Timberlands organization and will help recently named key leaders gain additional experience and accomplish critical business objectives. As a new member of our Senior Management Team, Jack will provide an important perspective to our leadership team."

Taylor joined Weyerhaeuser in 1969 and worked in a variety of forestry, timberlands operations and raw materials management positions. He has been vice president of Western Timberlands since 1999.
