DESCRIPTION OF THE COMPANY

Source Capital, Inc., is a major diversified, publicly traded investment company with total net assets approximating $609,000,000. Its investment portfolio includes a wide range of securities with primary emphasis on common stocks.

Source Capital has Common and Preferred shares outstanding, both of which are traded on The New York Stock Exchange. Each of the 1,969,212 outstanding Preferred shares has a prior claim of $27.50 on assets and $2.40 per year on income. The balance of the Company's assets and income are available to the 8,517,000 shares of Common Stock outstanding.

Source Capital's investment objective is to seek maximum total return for Common shareholders from both capital appreciation and investment income to the extent consistent with protection of invested capital and provision of sufficient income to meet the dividend requirements of Preferred shareholders.

Source Capital is not a mutual fund. Thus, it does not repurchase its own shares on demand and does not need to structure its portfolio securities to provide for possible redemptions. As a publicly traded investment company, Source Capital's Common and Preferred shares are bought and sold on The New York Stock Exchange, and the Company is not involved in the transaction.

Source Capital's investment approach emphasizes primarily equity and equity-related investments in seeking to achieve its growth objective for its Common shareholders. The desirability of equity versus fixed-income investments continues to be a subject of debate. Source Capital's position is that without assuming undue risk and recognizing the fixed claim of its Preferred Stock, properly selected stocks offer the better long-term opportunity for overall investment return as well as long-term protection from the large but uncertain threat of inflation. Source Capital's equity investments have been directed toward companies with highly liquid, relatively unleveraged balance sheets, and a demonstrated long-term ability to earn above-average returns on invested capital. Source Capital's equity investment portfolio is based on fundamental judgments of long-term returns attainable from income and appreciation in the securities of such companies and is not derived from overall economic forecasts or stock market predictions.

Edgar Filing: SOURCE CAPITAL INC /DE/ - Form N-CSRS

The Company has adopted a flexible distribution policy. This policy is designed to pay Common shareholders quarterly distributions at a rate that is substantially in excess of net investment income. The rate will be adjusted periodically in response to sustained changes in the net asset value, market conditions and changes to investment company regulations and tax laws. Only a portion of such distributions is paid from net investment income. The remainder is paid from any net realized capital gains and/or paid-in capital, as determined by each year's results. To the extent the Company realizes net long-term capital gains for any year in excess of the amounts distributed under the Company's distribution policy, such excess will be distributed to shareholders. All distributions are taxable to shareholders as dividend income or capital gain distributions since the Company has accumulated earnings and profits from prior years.

LETTER TO SHAREHOLDERS

TO OUR SHAREHOLDERS:

Source Capital's total net assets decreased from $664,904,366 to $609,389,806 during the second quarter. Net asset value per Common share amounted to $65.19 at June 30, 2006, compared with $71.91 at March 31, 2006, and $66.79 at year-end 2005. These changes in net asset value were net of cash distributions of $1.00 paid in both the first and second quarters.

Investment Results, 2006 First Half

For the six months ended June 30, 2006, the net asset value per share of Source Capital's Common Stock increased by 0.5%, as adjusted for reinvestment of distributions paid during the period, while total net assets rose 0.9%. These returns compare with a 6.3% increase in the Russell 2500 Index, a measure of small to medium capitalization stock performance. The foregoing changes were calculated on the basis of reinvesting all dividends and distributions.

Investment Results, 2006 Second Quarter

In the most recent quarter, Source Capital's net asset value per share of Common Stock decreased 8.0%, as adjusted for reinvestment of the $1.00 distribution paid during the period, while total net assets declined 7.1%, both on a reinvestment basis. In comparison, the Russell 2500 Index decreased 4.3% during the quarter, also on a reinvestment basis.

Distributions to Common Shareholders

A regular quarterly distribution of $1.00 per share was paid on June 15, 2006, to shareholders of record on May 26, 2006. Source Capital's distribution policy allows the Board of Directors to continue to consider changes in net asset value when establishing the quarterly distribution rate, but also provides the flexibility to consider other factors such as current market conditions and changes to investment company regulations and tax laws. It is the intention of the Board of Directors to continue paying quarterly distributions at a rate that is substantially in excess of net investment income as evidenced by the current annual distribution rate of $4.00.

Preferred Dividends

The regular Preferred dividend of $0.60 per share was paid on June 15, 2006, to shareholders of record on May 26, 2006. The changes in the Company's total net assets since year-end 2005 have resulted in changes in the Preferred shares' asset coverage from 1,145% at December 31, 2005 to 1,228% at March 31, 2006, and 1,125% at June 30, 2006. Net investment income provided Preferred dividend coverage of 107% for the second quarter and 93% for the six months, compared with 82% and 79% for the corresponding periods of 2005.

Market Price of Source Capital Shares

The market price of Source Capital Common Stock decreased from $73.75 to $72.31 during the first half of 2006. As this $1.44 decrease in market price was less than the $1.60 decline in the underlying net asset value, the market premium to net asset value of 10.4% at year-end 2005 increased to 10.9% at June 30, 2006.

The market price of Source Capital Preferred Stock decreased to $31.70 at June 30, 2006, from $33.60 at year-end 2005.

Commentary

After huge stock market gains over the first four months of this year, especially in smaller and more speculative companies (Russell 2000 up 16% through May 5th market top, S&P 500 up 6%), there has been a dramatic retreat, as worries about economic slowdown, inflation, and Mid-East conflicts have eliminated all earlier gains (through late July).

Source performance over the first half of 2006 has been mediocre, as 2Q losses mostly offset a respectable 1Q advance. First half returns are 0.5%, comparing unfavorably to the benchmark Russell 2500 (+6.3%), but much closer to the indexes representing the market as a whole (S&P + 2.7%, Nasdaq down 1.5%). Over longer time periods, returns have been excellent.

We believe Polaris Industries is a company with a lot to offer the Source portfolio. We initiated our position in September 2005, and have increased it on stock price declines.

Some of Polaris's attractions to us include:

A long record of uninterrupted growth in sales and income

Very high returns on capital return on equity exceeding 40% despite having very little debt

Leading market shares for its major products

Strong management, headed by CEO Tom Tiller (ex GE)

Polaris operates in three business segments. Its oldest business is snowmobiles Polaris invented the snowmobile 50 years ago. The industry is centered in the upper Midwest and Canada and has been challenged by lack of snow in recent years. As a result, snowmobiles are now only about 10% of company revenue. Polaris is a strong #2 to Bombardier's Ski Doo brand, ahead of Arctic Cat and Yamaha.

Polaris's largest business is ATV's (All-Terrain Vehicles). This industry has grown steadily for over a decade and now totals over one million units annually ($6 billion), about three-quarters in the U.S., with most of the rest in Europe. Honda is the industry leader with a 30% market share followed by Polaris (20%) and the other Japanese power sports manufacturers (Yamaha, Suzuki and Kawasaki).

Polaris's newest business is motorcycles, which it entered in 1998, to give U.S. customers a domestic alternative to Harley-Davidson. Like Harley, Polaris manufactures cruisers and touring bikes, a $6 billion market worldwide. Polaris has only a 2% market share, far behind the leader Harley, but it is rapidly growing. The other major market segments, off- road and sport bikes, are dominated by Japanese and European manufacturers.

Polaris also has an attractive finance business, both dealer floor planning and retail credit, which earns it attractive returns with minimal credit risk. In 2005, the finance business contributed 20% of Polaris's profits.

Naturally, there is a number of both industry and Polaris-specific issues about which investors are presently worrying.

Snowmobile sales have been declining for 10 years, and are now 45% below their 1997 peak in the U.S. and down 35% worldwide. This has been driven by a series of poor snow years, but the possibility cannot be ignored that global warming, rather than normal weather fluctuations, may be the case.

On top of these industry issues, Polaris has added some problems of its own making, notably a series of engineering and manufacturing missteps which increased warranty costs, hurt its reputation with buyers, and alienated many dealers.

At this point it appears that quality issues have been resolved and excess dealer inventory levels reduced, but customer reputation may take some time to recover. Of course, none of this makes much difference if the snow doesn't fall.

The ATV market in the U.S. peaked in 2004 and, after growing at 15% annually for the prior decade, has declined modestly since then. Dealers are struggling with excess inventory levels, requiring manufacturers to reduce production and provide promotional support. High gas prices and a potential slowdown in consumer spending are not likely to be helpful. In addition, the market is starting to see an increased presence of cheap Chinese imports. So far these are only low-end products (power, durability), but this situation may change.

The U.S. industry may well have little growth ahead, though with the top three producers having a combined 70% market share, it could continue to have solid profitability.

In addition, Polaris is seeing excellent growth in two segments of the ATV market. First, Europe, where recent regulatory changes, permitting ATVs to drive on roads as well as off, have helped sales. Second, "utility vehicles", a type of ATV which looks more like a golf cart, in contrast to conventional ATVs which resemble a motorcycle with four big tires.

Polaris's greatest growth potential is in expanding its relatively modest, but rapidly growing, motorcycle business. This has more than tripled over the past five years and now is 6% of total sales, as Polaris has invested engineering and marketing resources in broadening and improving the product line, as well as upgrading the dealer network.

In a promising action, in mid-2005 Polaris bought a 25% interest in KTM, a major European motorcycle company, specializing in off-road bikes, with sales of $500 million, four times larger than Polaris's bike sales. The plan was to spend two years working on joint projects to see whether a full acquisition of KTM by Polaris would be likely to be successful. There are clearly many aspects of the business where the two firms are complementary, including product, distribution, and manufacturing.

Unfortunately, in a decision just announced in late July, the majority owners of KTM said they would not be selling the remaining 75% shares to Polaris. It appears that this is more reflective of a personal preference to remain independent than of a failure of the strategy or its execution. Regardless, it must be seen as an unfortunate delay, though not a fatal one, to the company's meeting its growth objectives.

Despite this recent news, we continue to have a positive view of the Polaris business and prospects. Selling at about 12x year 2006 earnings, with an unleveraged balance sheet, high return on capital, and strong market shares, we think Polaris offers a very good balance of risk and reward.

Respectfully submitted,

Eric S. Ende

NOTES TO FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

June 30, 2006

NOTE A Significant Accounting Policies

The Company is registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940 as a diversified, closed-end management investment company. The investment objective of the Company is to seek maximum total return for Common shareholders from both capital appreciation and investment income to the extent consistent with protection of invested capital and provision of sufficient income to meet the dividend requirements of Preferred shareholders. The significant accounting policies followed by the Company in the preparation of its financial statements include the following:

- 1. SECURITIES VALUATION Securities, including any outstanding written call options, listed or traded on a national securities exchange are valued at the last sale price. Securities traded on the NASDAQ National Market System are valued at the NASDAQ Official Closing Price. If there was not a sale that day, securities are valued at the mean between the most recent bid and asked prices. Securities that are unlisted and debt and convertible securities listed on a national securities exchange for which the over-the-counter market more accurately reflects the securities' value, in the judgment of the Company's officers, are valued at the mean between the most recent bid and asked prices or other ascertainable market value. Short-term investments with maturities of 60 days or less are valued at cost plus interest earned, which approximates market value. Restricted securities and securities for which market quotations are not readily available are valued at fair value as determined in good faith by, or under the direction of, the Board of Directors.
- 2. FEDERAL INCOME TAX No provision for federal taxes is considered necessary because the Company has elected to be taxed as a "regulated investment company" under the Internal Revenue Code and intends to maintain this qualification and to distribute each year all of its taxable net investment income and taxable net realized gain on investments to its shareholders in accordance with the minimum distribution requirements of the Code.
- 3. USE OF ESTIMATES The preparation of the financial statements in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the amounts reported. Actual results could differ from those estimates.
- 4. OTHER Securities transactions are accounted for on the date securities are purchased or sold. Dividend income is recorded on the ex-dividend date. Interest income and expenses are recorded on an accrual basis. Dividends payable by the Company on the Preferred Stock are recorded on an accrual basis and distributions payable on the Common Stock are recorded on the ex-dividend date. The distribution allocation at June 30, 2006, is preliminary and may be revised based on operating results for the entire year. The ratios of expenses and net income to average net assets do not reflect the effect of payments to Preferred shareholders.

NOTE B Capital Stock

The Preferred Stock is entitled in liquidation to $27.50 per share plus accrued dividends and may be called for redemption, at the discretion of the Company, at $27.50 per share plus accrued dividends. Dividends may not be declared on the Common Stock if Preferred dividends are in arrears or if the Preferred Stock would not thereafter have an asset coverage of 200% or more. At June 30, 2006, the asset coverage of the Preferred Stock was 1,125%.

The Company issued 45,182 shares of Common Stock under its Reinvestment Plan for Common and Preferred shareholders during the six months ended June 30, 2006.

NOTE C Advisory Fees and Other Affiliated Transactions

Pursuant to an investment advisory agreement, the Company pays First Pacific Advisors, Inc. ("Investment Adviser"), monthly investment advisory fees calculated at an annual rate of 0.725% for the first $100 million of total net assets, 0.700% for the next $100 million of total net assets, and 0.675% for any total net assets in excess of $200 million. The Agreement obligates the Investment Adviser to reduce its fee to the extent necessary to reimburse the Company for any annual expenses (exclusive of interest, taxes, the cost of any supplementary statistical and research information, legal expenses related to portfolio securities, and extraordinary expenses such as litigation) in excess of 1½% of the first $30 million and 1% of the remaining average total net assets of the Company for the year.

The investment advisory agreement provides that it may be renewed from year to year by (i) the Board of Directors of the Company or by the vote of a majority (as defined in the Investment Company Act of 1940) of the outstanding voting securities of the Company, and (ii) by the vote of a majority of Directors who are not interested persons (as defined in the 1940 Act) of the Company or of the Investment Adviser cast in person at a meeting called for the purpose of voting on such approval. At a meeting of the Board of Directors held on February 6, 2006, the continuance of the advisory agreement through April 30, 2007, was approved by the Board of Directors and by a majority of the Directors who are not interested persons of the Company or of the Investment Adviser. A new investment advisory agreement between the Company and Resolute, LLC ("Resolute") was also approved at that same meeting by the Board of Directors and by a majority of the Directors who are not interested persons of the Company, the Investment Adviser, or Resolute. Resolute was created by the principals and key investment professionals of the Company's current Investment Adviser. Resolute has exercised its option to purchase, among other things, the operating assets and name of the Investment Adviser. This purchase is expected to take effect on or about October 1, 2006, and the new investment advisory agreement would take effect at that time. This new investment advisory agreement is identical to the Company's current investment advisory agreement. At the annual meeting of shareholders held on May 25, 2006, the shareholders of the Company approved the continuance of the current agreement and the new agreement.

In determining whether to renew the current advisory agreement and approve the new agreement with Resolute, those Company Directors who are not interested persons of the Company, the Investment Adviser or Resolute met separately to evaluate information provided by the Investment Adviser in accordance with the 1940 Act and to determine their recommendation to the full Board of Directors. The Directors considered a variety of factors, including the quality of advisory, management, and accounting services provided to the Company, the fees and expenses borne by the Company, the profitability of the Investment Adviser, and the investment performance of the Company as well as the performance of a peer group of investment companies. The Company's advisory fee and expense ratio was also considered in light of the advisory fees and expense ratios of a peer group of investment companies. The Directors noted the Company's superior investment results and the quality and depth of the Investment Adviser and its investment and administrative personnel. The Directors also took into consideration the benefits derived by the Investment Adviser from arrangements under which it receives research services from brokers to whom the Company's brokerage transactions are allocated. Based upon its consideration of these and other relevant factors, the Directors concluded that the advisory fees and other expenses paid the Company are fair and shareholders have received reasonable value in return for such fees and expenses. Thus, the Directors recommended that shareholders approve the continuance of the current advisory agreement and approve the new agreement with Resolute to take effect on or about October 1, 2006.

For the six months ended June 30, 2006, the Company paid aggregate fees of $62,500 to all Directors who are not interested persons of the Investment Adviser. The Officers of the Company are also officers of the Investment Adviser.

NOTE D Purchases and Sales of Securities

Cost of purchases of investment securities (excluding short-term corporate notes with maturities of 60 days or less) aggregated $47,710,609 for the six months ended June 30, 2006. Cost of investment securities owned at June 30, 2006, was the same for federal income tax and financial reporting purposes. Gains and losses are based on the specific certificate identification method. Gross unrealized appreciation and depreciation for all investments at June 30, 2006, for federal income tax purposes was $221,578,765 and $14,897,851, respectively, with total net unrealized appreciation of $206,680,914.
