Item 1.01. Entry Into A Material Definitive Agreement.

On April 7, 2009, Force Protection Industries, Inc., a wholly owned subsidiary of Force Protection, Inc. (the Registrant) entered into a Teaming Agreement (the Teaming Agreement) with Oshkosh Corporation (OshKosh) to cooperate in upgrading the suspension for the Cougar-class of vehicles and its variants developed and sold by the Registrant and purchased by the United States Department of Defense, including the United States Marine Corps Systems Command.

Pursuant to the Teaming Agreement, the Registrant and Oshkosh have agreed that the Registrant shall act as prime contractor for current and future customers of the Registrant's Cougar vehicles which specifically request Oshkosh's TAK-4® Cougar Suspension Upgrades (TCSU). Oshkosh has a right of first refusal to assemble TCSU kits and install them subject to approval by the Registrant's customers and any entity with which the Registrant has a prior agreement that relates to the Registrant's Cougar line of vehicles. Additionally, Oshkosh may train, supervise and certify the Registrant's personnel in the installation of the TCSU kits. The Registrant has agreed to exert reasonable efforts to receive the necessary approval from its customers to ensure that Oshkosh may install the TCSU kits as a subcontractor. Through the life of the Teaming Agreement and subject to the terms thereof, the Registrant and Oshkosh agree that neither party will submit a proposal or bid for services relating to suspension upgrades of the Cougar-class of vehicles separately or with others. The Teaming Agreement provides for expiration upon the earlier of: (i) cancellation of the proposal; (ii) elimination of Registrant from consideration under a proposal; (iii) a decision by the customer to work directly with Oshkosh; (iv) disapproval by customer of a contract to Oshkosh; (v) failure to reach agreement on terms of the contract; (vi) mutual agreement of the parties; (vii) bankruptcy of a party; (viii) material breach by a party after notice and failure to cure; (ix) the execution of a contract or (x) the later of sixty months after the effective date of the Teaming Agreement or the award of a contract under any pending proposal.

On April 8, 2009, the Registrant received a modification to a contract from the United States Marine Corps Systems Command to supply existing Force Protection Cougar Mine Resistant Ambush Protected (MRAP) vehicles with Oshkosh's TCSU. This contract modification is not to exceed $158 million and is subject to definitization. Pursuant to the Teaming Agreement, Force Protection awarded OshKosh a $122 million order to supply the TCSU kits in connection with this contract modification.
