PIMCO Dynamic Income Fund PIMCO Global StocksPLUS® & Income Fund 3.31.13 | PIMCO High Income Fund Annual Report 1

| Dear Shareholder: | |
|--|--------------------------------------|
| US stock markets surged to all-time highs during the fiscal twelve-month reporting period ended March 31, 2013, capping a dramatic comeback from the lows of March 2009. The market rally over the past four years has been, in both nominal and real terms, the fifth largest since 1940. It is notable that these gains have come despite the steady headwinds that continue to challenge the world s three largest economies, the US, the European Union (E.U.) and China. | |
| For the reporting period ended March 31, 2013 | |

The International Monetary Fund (IMF) predicts that, as a result of the automatic budget reductions that the US government began making in March 2013 US GDP will expand at a 1.7% pace in 2013, down from a previous estimate of 2.0%. The IMF also predicts the E.U. s downturn will continue, forecasting a -0.2% contraction in the euro-zone s GDP for 2013. Given the interconnection of the US, European and Chinese economics, economic issues experienced in one of these economies are likely to impact the other economies.

PIMCO Dynamic Income Fund Fund Insights

March 31, 2013 (unaudited)

For the period from its inception on May 30, 2012 through March 31, 2013 (the reporting period), PIMCO Dynamic Income Fund (the Fund) returned 40.17% on net asset value (NAV) and 35.21% on market price.

A number of macro issues caused the financial markets to experience periods of volatility during the reporting period. These included a continuation of the European sovereign debt crisis, slower global economic growth, the US fiscal cliff and sequestration. Against this backdrop, there were periods of heightened risk aversion. Despite these issues, investors who assumed greater risk were rewarded. The overall US fixed income market, as measured by the Barclays US Aggregate Bond Index, returned 3.77% during the reporting period. The yield curve steepened over the reporting period, as short-term yields declined slightly, whereas longer-term yields moved higher.

Spread sectors (non-Treasuries) generally outperformed equal-duration Treasuries as investors looked for yield in the low interest rate environment. For instance, emerging market debt advanced 10.44% during the reporting period, as measured by the JPMorgan EMBI Global Index. The global high yield corporate bond market, as measured by the Barclays Global High Yield Index, returned 12.98%, compared to the global credit market advance of 6.69%, as measured by the Barclays Global Credit Index.

Sector positioning produces positive results

The Fund posted strong absolute and relative returns during the reporting period. An allocation to non-agency mortgage-backed securities helped results, as these bonds outperformed the broader market, supported by positive supply/demand technicals. The Fund s exposure to high yield corporate bonds was beneficial, as their spreads tightened during the reporting period. An emphasis on banking enhanced results as these issues outperformed the broader market. A short duration aided the Fund s performance as intermediate- and longer-term rates moved higher during the reporting period.

There were no significant detractors from performance during the reporting period.

PIMCO Global StocksPLUS® & Income Fund Fund Insights

March 31, 2013 (unaudited)

For the 12-month period ended March 31, 2013, PIMCO Global StocksPLUS® & Income Fund (the Fund) returned 35.36% on net asset value (NAV) and 21.57% on market price.

A number of macro issues caused the global financial markets to experience periods of volatility during the reporting period. These included a continuation of the European sovereign debt crisis, slower global economic growth, the US fiscal cliff and sequestration. Despite these issues, investors who assumed greater risk were rewarded during the reporting period.

The global developed equity markets produced strong results during the 12 months ended March 31, 2013. Over this period, the US stock market returned 13.96%, as measured by the S&P 500 Index (the S&P 500). The S&P 500 fell sharply during the first two months of the period, as investor risk aversion heightened due to fears of contagion from the European sovereign debt crisis and weaker than expected economic data in the US. The S&P 500 then moved higher during nine of the next ten months and, on the last trading day of March 2013, reached an all-time high. Supporting the market over that period were generally robust investor demand, corporate profits that often exceeded expectations and ongoing policy accommodation by the Federal Reserve. International developed equities, as measured by the MSCI EAFE Index, also posted a double-digit return, although they lagged the S&P 500. All told, international developed equities returned 11.25% (as measured by the MSCI EAFE Index) for the 12 months ended March 31, 2013.

US Treasury yields fluctuated during the reporting period, but moved lower during the 12 months ended March 31, 2013. Yields generally moved lower over the first five months of the period given mixed economic data and periods of risk aversion. In late July 2012, the yield on the 10-year Treasury reached an all-time low. Subsequently, yields typically moved higher as the US economy continued to expand and ongoing policy accommodation triggered expectations for future inflation. The yield curve flattened during the 12 months ended March 31, 2013, as longer-term yields fell more than their short-term counterparts. The spread sectors (non-Treasuries) generally outperformed equal-duration Treasuries during the period as investors looked for yield in the low interest rate environment.

Equity exposure produces generally positive results

Performance benefited from an average 52% exposure to US equities during the reporting period through S&P 500 futures contracts along with a defensive option strategy that sought to generate income and limit losses. The Fund utilized total return swaps to gain access to the MSCI EAFE Index. The Fund s average exposure to foreign stocks was 48% during the reporting period. This was beneficial to performance given the strong results from international developed equities.

The Fund s defensive option strategy detracted from performance due to the exercise of written call options during the equity market rally that took place from late 2012 through the end of the period.

Allocations to spread sectors produced positive results

A minor portion of the Fund s assets were invested in futures contracts and total return swaps. These instruments permit participation in the returns of the S&P 500 and MSCI EAFE indexes without having to hold the individual stocks which comprise these indexes. The Fund s assets are primarily actively managed in a portfolio of fixed income securities with the objective of adding incremental return.

The Fund s fixed income securities contributed to performance during the reporting period. Holdings of residential non-agency mortgage-backed securities and commercial mortgage-backed securities added significant value, as strong demand for high quality income and a strengthening US housing market drove prices higher. Allocations to high yield and investment grade corporate bonds, with the latter emphasizing the Financial sector, positively impacted returns due to narrowing credit spreads during the 12-month period. The Fund s US interest rate strategy had a beneficial impact on performance, as US Treasury yields were broadly lower during the 12 months ended March 31, 2013. The Fund also benefited from earning a yield in excess of the money market interest rate cost associated with equity index futures and swaps ownership.

The US high yield market advanced 13.11% during the 12 months ended March 31, 2013, as measured by the BofA Merrill Lynch High Yield Master II Index (the Index). Supporting the high yield market were corporate profits that often exceeded expectations, cash-rich corporate balance sheets, low defaults and overall solid demand. In aggregate, during the 12-month period, lower quality securities generally outperformed their higher quality counterparts, with CCC and lower-rated bonds returning 16.12% and BB/B-rated securities in the Index returning 12.48%.

Sector positioning produces largely positive results

The Fund posted strong absolute and relative returns on a NAV basis during the reporting period. An allocation to non-agency mortgage-backed securities helped results, as these bond issues outperformed the broader market, supported by positive supply/demand technicals. An emphasis on select high quality Banking issues enhanced performance, as did an overweighting to the Insurance sector, as they outperformed the broader market. The Fund s long duration added to performance as interest rates in the US declined during the 12-month period.

Detracting from these positive results was the Fund s underweighting to high yield corporate bonds, as the spreads on these securities tightened during the reporting period. A tactical allocation to emerging markets in the first quarter of 2013 was negative, as this asset class underperformed the broader credit market during that time.

PIMCO Dynamic Income Fund

Notes to Schedule of Investments

March 31, 2013

- (a) Private Placement Restricted as to resale and may not have a readily available market. Securities with an aggregate value of $775,521,711, representing 55.7% of net assets.
- (b) Illiquid.
- (c) These securities generally pay interest at rates which are periodically pre-determined by reference to a base lending rate plus a premium. These base lending rates are generally either the lending rate offered by one or more major European banks, such as the LIBOR or the prime rate offered by one or more major United States banks, or the certificate of deposit rate. These securities are generally considered to be restricted as the Fund is ordinarily contractually obligated to receive approval from the Agent bank and/or borrower prior to disposition. Remaining maturities of senior loans may be less than the stated maturities shown as a result of contractual or optional payments by the borrower. Such prepayments cannot be predicted with certainty. The interest rate disclosed reflects the rate in effect on March 31, 2013.
- (d) 144A Exempt from registration under Rule 144A of the Securities Act of 1933. These securities may be resold in transactions exempt from registration, typically only to qualified institutional buyers. Unless otherwise indicated, these securities are not considered to be illiquid.
- (e) In default.
- (f) Fair-Valued Securities with an aggregate value of $155,644,290, representing 11.2% of net assets. See Note 1(a) and Note 1(b) in the Notes to Financial Statements.
- (g) Perpetual maturity. The date shown, if any, is the next call date. For Corporate Bonds & Notes the interest rate is fixed until the first call date and variable thereafter.
- (h) All or partial amount segregated for the benefit of the counterparty as collateral for derivatives.
- (i) All or partial amount transferred for the benefit of the counterparty as collateral for reverse repurchase agreements.
- (j) Restricted. The aggregate acquisition cost of such securities is $50,027,002. The aggregate value is $52,789,282, representing 3.8% of net assets.
- (k) Variable or Floating Rate Security Securities with an interest rate that changes periodically. The interest rate disclosed reflects the rate in effect on March 31, 2013.
- (l) Rates reflect the effective yields at purchase date.
- (m) Credit default swap agreements outstanding at March 31, 2013:

(1) This represents the maximum potential amount the Fund could be required to make available as a seller of credit protection or receive as a buyer of credit protection if a credit event occurs as defined under the terms of that particular swap agreement.

PIMCO Dynamic Income Fund Notes to Schedule of Investments

- (2) The quoted market prices and resulting values for credit default swap agreements serve as an indicator of the status at March 31, 2013 of the payment/performance risk and represent the likelihood of an expected liability (or profit) for the credit derivative should the notional amount of the swap agreement have been closed/sold as of the period end. Increasing market values, in absolute terms when compared to the notional amount of the swap, represent a deterioration of the referenced entity s credit soundness and a greater likelihood or risk of default or other credit event occurring as defined under the terms of the agreement.

PIMCO Global StocksPLUS® & Income Fund Notes to Schedule of Investments

March 31, 2013

- (a) Private Placement Restricted as to resale and may not have a readily available market. Securities with an aggregate value of $59,604,584, representing 40.2% of net assets.
- (b) Illiquid.
- (c) These securities generally pay interest at rates which are periodically pre-determined by reference to a base lending rate plus a premium. These base lending rates are generally either the lending rate offered by one or more major European banks, such as the LIBOR or the prime rate offered by one or more major United States banks, or the certificate of deposit rate. These securities are generally considered to be restricted as the Fund is ordinarily contractually obligated to receive approval from the Agent bank and/or borrower prior to disposition. Remaining maturities of senior loans may be less than the stated maturities shown as a result of contractual or optional payments by the borrower. Such prepayments cannot be predicted with certainty. The interest rate disclosed reflects the rate in effect on March 31, 2013.
- (d) 144A Exempt from registration under Rule 144A of the Securities Act of 1933. These securities may be resold in transactions exempt from registration, typically only to qualified institutional buyers. Unless otherwise indicated, these securities are not considered to be illiquid.
- (e) In default.
- (f) Fair-Valued Securities with an aggregate value of $7,812,628, representing 5.3% of net assets. See Note 1(a) and Note 1(b) in the Notes to Financial Statements.
- (g) Perpetual maturity. The date shown, if any, is the next call date. For Corporate Bonds & Notes the interest rate is fixed until the first call date and variable thereafter.
- (h) All or partial amount segregated for the benefit of the counterparty as collateral for derivatives.
- (i) All or partial amount transferred for the benefit of the counterparty as collateral for reverse repurchase agreements.
- (j) Restricted. The aggregate acquisition cost of such securities is $8,371,443. The aggregate value is $9,240,414, representing 6.2% of net assets
- (k) Variable or Floating Rate Security Securities with an interest rate that changes periodically. The interest rate disclosed reflects the rate in effect on March 31, 2013.
- (l) Rates reflect the effective yields at purchase date.
- (m) Non-income producing.

Credit Spread not quoted for asset-backed securities.

⁽¹⁾ This represents the maximum potential amount the Fund could be required to make available as a seller of credit protection or receive as a buyer of credit protection if a credit event occurs as defined under the terms of that particular swap agreement.

⁽²⁾ The quoted market prices and resulting values for credit default swap agreements serve as an indicator of the status at March 31, 2013 of the payment/performance risk and represent the likelihood of an expected liability (or profit) for the credit derivative should the notional amount of the swap agreement have been closed/sold as of the period end. Increasing market values, in absolute terms when compared to the notional amount of the swap, represent a deterioration of the referenced entity s credit soundness and a greater likelihood or risk of default or other credit event occurring as defined under the terms of the agreement.

- (1) This represents the maximum potential amount the Fund could be required to make available as a seller of credit protection or receive as a buyer of credit protection if a credit event occurs as defined under the terms of that particular swap agreement.
- (2) The quoted market prices and resulting values for credit default swap agreements serve as an indicator of the status at March 31, 2013 of the payment/performance risk and represent the likelihood of an expected liability (or profit) for the credit derivative should the notional amount of the swap agreement have been closed/sold as of the period end. Increasing market values, in absolute terms when compared to the notional amount of the swap, represent a deterioration of the referenced entity s credit soundness and a greater likelihood or risk of default or other credit event occurring as defined under the terms of the agreement.
