AMAG Pharmaceuticals Announces Proposed Offering of

$150 Million of Convertible Senior Notes due 2019

WALTHAM, Mass., February 10, 2014 – AMAG Pharmaceuticals, Inc. (Nasdaq:AMAG) today announced that it intends to offer, subject to market and other conditions, $150 million aggregate principal amount of Convertible Senior Notes due 2019 (the “notes”) in an underwritten public offering (the “offering”) registered under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended. J.P. Morgan Securities LLC and Morgan Stanley & Co. LLC are acting as book-running managers for the offering. AMAG expects to grant the underwriters an option to purchase, exercisable within a 30-day period, up to an additional $22.5 million principal amount of notes, solely to cover over-allotments, if any.

The notes will pay interest semiannually and will mature on February 15, 2019, unless earlier repurchased or converted in accordance with their terms prior to such date. AMAG will not have the right to redeem the notes prior to maturity. Prior to May 15, 2018, the notes will be convertible at the option of holders of the notes only upon satisfaction of certain conditions and during certain periods, and thereafter, at any time until the close of business on the second scheduled trading day immediately preceding the maturity date. Upon conversion, holders of the notes will receive shares of AMAG’s common stock, cash or a combination thereof, at AMAG’s election. The interest rate, initial conversion rate and other terms of the notes will be determined by negotiations between AMAG and the underwriters of the notes at the time of the pricing of the offering.

In connection with the pricing of the notes, AMAG intends to enter into privately negotiated convertible note hedge transactions with one or more financial institutions, which may include one or more of the underwriters or their respective affiliates (the “option counterparties”). The convertible note hedge transactions are expected to reduce potential dilution to AMAG’s common stock upon conversion of the notes and/or offset any cash payments due upon conversion of the notes in the event that the market price per share of AMAG’s common stock, as measured under the terms of the convertible note hedge transactions, is greater than the strike price of the convertible note hedge transactions (which is expected to correspond to the initial conversion price of the notes and is subject to certain adjustments substantially similar to those contained in the notes). In addition, in order to partially offset the cost of the convertible note hedge transactions, AMAG expects to issue warrants to the option counterparties at a higher strike price. The warrants would separately have a dilutive effect to the extent that the market price per share of AMAG's common stock exceeds the applicable strike price of the warrants. If the underwriters exercise their over-allotment option, AMAG may enter into additional convertible note hedge transactions and additional warrant transactions.

AMAG has been advised that, in connection with the convertible note hedge and warrant transactions, the option counterparties or their affiliates expect to enter into various derivative transactions with respect to AMAG's common stock concurrently with or shortly after the pricing of the notes and may, from time to time following the pricing of the notes, enter into or unwind various derivatives with respect to AMAG's common stock and/or purchase or sell AMAG common stock or other securities of AMAG in secondary market transactions (and are likely to do so during any observation period relating to a conversion of notes). These activities could increase (or reduce the size of any decrease in) the market price of AMAG's common stock or the notes concurrently with or following the pricing of the notes, and could also cause or avoid an increase or a decrease in the price of AMAG's common stock or the notes following the pricing of the notes and prior to the maturity of the notes.

AMAG expects to use a portion of the net proceeds from the offering of the notes to pay the cost of the convertible note hedge transactions (after such cost is partially offset by the proceeds from the sale of the warrants). AMAG intends to use the remainder of the net proceeds from the offering for working capital and other general corporate purposes, including to fund possible acquisitions of, or investments in, complementary businesses, products, services and technologies. AMAG has not entered into any agreements or commitments with respect to any acquisitions or investments.

The offering will be made pursuant to AMAG's shelf registration statement (including a prospectus) previously filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) on November 6, 2013, which was declared effective by the SEC on November 18, 2013, and a preliminary prospectus supplement related to the notes, filed with the SEC on February 10, 2014. Before investing, investors should read the prospectus and the preliminary prospectus supplement, including the documents incorporated by reference therein, and any free writing prospectus related to the offering for more complete information about AMAG and the offering. This press release does not constitute an offer to sell or a solicitation of an offer to buy, nor shall there be any offer or sale of, the notes or the shares of AMAG's common stock issuable upon conversion of the notes, if any, in any state or jurisdiction in which the offer, solicitation, or sale of the notes would be unlawful prior to the registration or qualification thereof under the securities laws of any such state or jurisdiction. Any offers, solicitations of offers to buy, or sales of the notes will only be made pursuant to the registration statement filed with and declared effective by the SEC, including a prospectus and a related preliminary prospectus supplement.
