Item 2.03 Creation of a Direct Financial Obligation or an Obligation under an Off-Balance Sheet Arrangement of a Registrant.

The Company filed a patent infringement lawsuit against eBay Inc. in the United States District Court for the District of Massachusetts on December 20, 2013. The Company is represented in its lawsuit on a contingency basis by Hunton & Williams LLP ("Hunton"). To fund the expense of the lawsuit not covered by Hunton, the Company simultaneously entered into a financing arrangement that will cover all remainder fees and costs of the lawsuit. The Company will not itself be required to pay any lawsuit-related fees or costs other than those incurred directly by the Company such as employee travel costs or administrative expenses. Solely to the extent there are any recoveries from the lawsuit, Hunton will receive a contingency fee and the financier will receive an independent fee, equal to a percentage of proceeds of no more than 35% in the aggregate, plus total accrued fees and costs. The amount of the costs that the financier will advance, and thus be reimbursed out of proceeds from any recoveries by the Company, and the total value of the contingency fee, is not known. To secure its payment obligations to the financier, the Company granted a security interest in the personal property of the Company, including the subject patents and all lawsuits, judgments and proceeds therefrom.
