Jean-Michel Dhenain
President and Chief Operating Officer, Sodexho Alliance

Jean-Michel Dhenain has been appointed President and Chief Operating Officer of Sodexho Alliance, the world's leading Food and Management Services company, alongside Michel Landel. He also continues to serve as Chairman and Chief Executive Officer for Continental Europe, while supervising South America and the Asia-Australia region. He was a key participant in Sodexho's development in France, helping it to achieve market leadership in the mid-nineties, and has played a major role in strengthening the Group's positions in Continental Europe, a market that today accounts for 29% of consolidated revenues.

Mr. Dhenain joined Sodexho in 1971, when he began what began his exemplary career by managing a number of front-line operations. He successively served as Regional Director, Sales Director and Departmental Director, before setting up the Sodexho France Hospitals and Healthcare subsidiary and becoming its Managing Director in 1984. Around this time, he returned from a trip to the United States with a breakthrough business strategy that would be widely imitated. His idea was to differentiate Sodexho from the competition and gain market share by developing multi-service solutions. Under his impetus, French healthcare revenues grew sevenfold in ten years. This success propelled him to the head of the Sodexho France Schools-Universities subsidiary in 1991, and in 1993, he was named Managing Director of Sodexho France.

In 1998, he was given responsibility for Continental Europe and became a member of the Sodexho Alliance Executive Committee, before being appointed Committee Vice President in February 2000.

Throughout his career, Mr. Dhenain has paid special attention to food safety. As the global leader in food and management services, Sodexho is extremely sensitive to public health concerns. As early as 1999, Mr. Dhenain created a Scientific Council in France, whose members included researchers and experts from a wide range of food safety disciplines.

Mr. Dhenain is also responsible for purchasing, an area in which he has implemented a strict, disciplined quality process based on the traceability of supplies.

Mr. Dhenain is a founding member of the Health Chair at the Ecole Supérieure des Sciences-Economiques et Commerciales (ESSEC) in Cergy-Pontoise.

Born in 1944, Mr. Dhenain is married and has one child. As a lover of sports and classical music, he likes to go for nature walks accompanied by the strains of Johann Sebastian Bach and serves as President of the Chamber Opera

Michel Landel
President and Chief Operating Officer, Sodexho Alliance

Michel Landel has been appointed President and Chief Operating Officer of Sodexho Alliance, the world's leading Food and Management Services company, alongside Jean-Michel Dhenain.

He continues to serve as Chief Executive Officer of Sodexho in North America, while taking on responsibility for the United Kingdom and Ireland, and the Remote Site Management business. Mr. Landel is the person behind the Group's remarkable expansion in North America, where it now generates half its consolidated revenues and employs 130,000 people.

Mr. Landel joined Sodexho in 1984 as Chief Operating Manager for Eastern and North Africa. His exceptional career achievements reflect his extraordinary ability to motivate teams. He increased sales and earnings in the units he has managed. By 1986, he had been promoted president of the Group's entire remote site operations in Africa, and in 1989, he took charge of the Group's North American operations. Under his management, in ten years Sodexho became the fourth largest Food and Management Services provider in North America, which represents nearly one third of the potential global market.

In 1998, Mr. Landel helped bring about the merger between Sodexho and Marriott Management Services, the leading food services company in North America. He actively participated in the creation of Sodexho Marriott Services (now Sodexho, Inc.), an alliance whose success enhanced Sodexho's global leadership and made it America's number one Food and Management Services provider. Today, Sodexho, Inc. ranks first in the education, healthcare and senior services segments, which offer the market's highest growth potential. Positions in these segments were further strengthened with the acquisition of Wood Dining Services in 2001.

In February 2000, Mr. Landel was appointed Vice-President of the Sodexho Alliance Executive Committee.

Sodexho, Inc. ranks among the 50 largest employers in the United States and has been recognized on several occasions for its commitment to equal opportunity. It was included in Latina Style's 2002 list of the 50 best companies for Hispanic women to work for in the United States and ranked 20th in The Black Collegian's list of the 100 top employers of the 2002 class of African-American graduates.

Mr. Landel also initiated the launch and deployment of the S.T.O.P. Hunger program to combat malnutrition, particularly among the more than 10 million undernourished children in the United States. Sodexho believes it has a moral obligation to fight hunger and intends to extend the program to its main countries of operation.

In 1997, Mr. Landel won the industry's coveted "Golden Chain Award" from the Multi-Unit Foodservice Operators association. Sodexho, Inc. was recognized as one of the best food services providers by Food Services Management Magazine in 2001. In 2002, he received Restaurants & Institutions' distinguished "Ivy Award" for developing restaurant-style brand concepts. The Penn State Hotel and Restaurant Society also voted him Hospitality Executive of the Year.
