QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS REGARDING

TREATMENT OF STOCK OPTIONS IN THE MERGER

As described in a press release dated May 5, 2014, SP Bancorp, Inc. (Company A) has entered into an Agreement and Plan of Merger (the Merger Agreement) with Green Bancorp, Inc. (Company B) and Searchlight Merger Sub Corp. (a wholly-owned subsidiary of Company B) (Merger Sub) dated as of May 5, 2014, pursuant to which, if the transaction is completed, Merger Sub will merge with and into Company A (the Merger), with Company A surviving and becoming a wholly-owned subsidiary of Company B. The completion of the Merger is subject to the satisfaction of a number of conditions, including receipt of regulatory approval and approval by Company A's stockholders. If the Merger is completed, all shares of Company A's common stock will be exchanged for cash. Your outstanding Company A stock options will be impacted by the completion of the Merger. This Q&A provides a brief overview regarding the treatment of your currently outstanding Company A stock options in connection with the Merger. This Q&A is a summary of the treatment of outstanding Company A stock options under the Merger Agreement and, in the event of a conflict between this Q&A and the Merger Agreement, the Merger Agreement controls. The examples provided in this Q&A are based on hypothetical numbers and amounts, and are for illustrative purposes only.

Please note that the potential timing for completion of the Merger cannot be determined with certainty at this time. More information on the Merger (including any publicly filed information) will be posted at www.proxydocs.com/SPBC as such information becomes available.

Q1: I currently hold vested stock options to purchase common stock of Company A. Can I exercise these options?

A1: Yes. You can exercise your vested options through the date that is five business days prior to the Effective Time (as defined in the Merger Agreement) of the Merger. If you exercise your vested options, you will receive the Merger consideration on the same terms as the other Company A stockholders in the transaction. Upon exercise of your options, you must pay the exercise price to Company A and satisfy all tax withholding obligations. If you hold incentive stock options and choose to exercise them prior to the Effective Time of the Merger, any gain on the options will not be subject to immediate income tax withholding on the option's date of exercise. However, if the closing date of the Merger is within one year from the date you exercise your incentive stock options, the sale as a result of the Merger of the shares you received on exercise of your option will be treated as a disqualifying disposition, and the positive difference between the incentive stock option's exercise price and the fair market value of Company A's common stock on the date you exercised the option will be treated as compensation taxable as ordinary income to you.

If you hold nonqualified stock options and choose to exercise them prior to the Effective Time of the Merger, you will owe income taxes on the option's date of exercise. The positive difference between the nonqualified stock option's exercise price and the fair market value of Company A's common stock on the date you exercised the option will be treated as compensation taxable as ordinary income to you.

You are advised to consult with your own tax advisor regarding the tax consequences of exercising your vested stock options prior to the Effective Time of the Merger. Company A makes no representation, guarantee, or other undertaking regarding the tax consequences to you if you exercise your options prior to the Effective Time of the Merger.

Q2: If I do not exercise my stock options, what happens to my options in connection with the Merger?

A2: Pursuant to Section 3.3(b) of the SP Bancorp, Inc. 2012 Equity Incentive Plan and Section 2.3(a) of the Merger Agreement, each of your outstanding options, whether vested or unvested, shall automatically, and without any required action on your part, be cancelled and converted into the right to receive an amount in cash (subject to deduction for any required withholding taxes) equal to the product of (a) the excess, if any, of the per share value of the Merger consideration over the option's exercise price multiplied by (b) the number of such options being cancelled. To the extent the exercise price for your option is greater than or equal to the per share value of the Merger consideration, your options will be cancelled for no consideration. For example, if the per share value of the Merger consideration is $29.55 and the exercise price of your option is $30.00, this option would be cancelled for no consideration.

Q3: Will I owe taxes when my options are surrendered in connection with the Merger?

A3: It depends. If the per share value of the Merger consideration exceeds the exercise price for your options, the difference between the exercise price of each option and the per share value of the Merger consideration will be treated as compensation taxable as ordinary income to you. If the exercise price of your option is greater than or equal to the per share value of the Merger consideration, the option will be cancelled for no consideration, and you will not owe any taxes in respect thereof.

For example, assume you hold an option for 1,000 shares with an exercise price equal to $19.40 per share. Assume also that the per share value of the Merger consideration is $29.55. Based upon these facts, you would be eligible to receive aggregate Merger consideration of $10,150 in cash ($($29.55 - $19.40) \times 1,000$ shares), prior to deduction of any required tax withholdings. The entire $10,150 will be treated as compensation taxable as ordinary income to you. Based on the supplemental withholding rate of 25%, a social security tax rate of 6.2% (assuming you have not reached the social security wage base limit as of the date the Merger is consummated), and Medicare tax rate of 1.45%, the amount of $3,313.98 would be withheld from your cash payment to satisfy the Federal tax withholding obligations with respect to the Merger consideration you are eligible to receive.

Your individual tax situation may be different. You are advised to consult with your own tax advisor regarding the tax consequences of your receipt of the Merger consideration. Company A makes no representation, guarantee, or other undertaking regarding the tax consequences to you of your receipt of the Merger consideration.

Q4: How will I pay any taxes due when my options are surrendered?

A4: As shown in the example in Q&A 3 above, the aggregate Merger consideration payable to you upon surrender of your options will be reduced by the applicable Federal, state, and local withholding taxes due with respect to the Merger consideration you are eligible to receive.

Q5: When will I receive payment in connection with the surrender of my options?

A5: You will receive payment of the aggregate Merger consideration (less applicable withholding taxes) you are eligible to receive in connection with the cancellation of your options as soon as reasonably practicable after the Effective Time of the Merger, but in any event within ten days after the Effective Time of the Merger.

Q6: What if I hold other equity awards relating to Company A's common stock, in addition to my stock options will each award be treated separately or will they be aggregated for purposes of calculating my taxes due?

A6: If you hold more than one type of equity award, for example, stock options and restricted stock, the Merger consideration payable with respect to your awards will be aggregated for purposes of determining your required withholdings and for purposes of satisfying those withholding obligations (to the extent you did not make an 83(b) election within 30 days of the grant of your restricted stock).

For example, assume you hold an option for 1,000 shares, with an exercise price equal to $19.40 per share, and 500 shares of unvested Company A restricted stock. As in the example in Q&A 3 above, assume also that the per share value of the Merger consideration is $29.55. Pursuant to the Merger Agreement, at the Effective Time of the Merger, each unvested share of Company A restricted stock shall vest and automatically, without any required action on your part, be cancelled and converted into the right to receive an amount in cash (subject to deduction for any required withholding taxes) equal to the per share value of the Merger consideration. Based upon these facts, you would be eligible to receive $10,150 in cash for your surrendered stock options plus $14,775 in cash for your cancelled shares of restricted stock, for aggregate Merger consideration of $24,925, prior to deduction of any required tax withholdings. The entire $24,925 will be treated as compensation taxable as ordinary income to you. Based on the supplemental withholding rate of 25%, a social security tax rate of 6.2% (assuming you have not reached the social security wage base limit as of the date the Merger is consummated), and Medicare tax rate of 1.45%, the amount of $8,138.01 would be withheld from your cash payment to satisfy the Federal tax withholding obligations with respect to the Merger consideration you are eligible to receive.

As noted above, your individual tax situation may be different. You are advised to consult with your own tax advisor regarding the tax consequences of your receipt of the Merger consideration. Company A makes no representation, guarantee, or other undertaking regarding the tax consequences to you of your receipt of the Merger consideration.
