Item 1.01. Entry into a Material Definitive Agreement.

On June 6, 2005, Western Digital Technologies, Inc., a wholly owned subsidiary of Western Digital Corporation, entered into a volume purchase agreement (VPA) with Komag Incorporated and Komag USA (Malaysia) Sdn. which terminates and replaces the existing agreement between the parties dated April 8, 1999, as amended. The new agreement with Komag is part of an ongoing effort by WD to diligently work with strategic suppliers to help ensure adequate supply of key components for its hard drives. The VPA requires that Komag supply and WD purchase certain specified media volumes and that Komag supply media from existing and new production capacity to meet such purchase requirements, subject to certain exceptions and grace periods. Komag's supply obligations and WD's purchase obligations under the VPA are for an initial period of eighteen months after Komag has commenced full capacity production from its new capacity, subject to certain extension and renewal periods.

The above description of the VPA is qualified in its entirety by reference to the full text of the VPA, a copy of which will be filed as an exhibit to the Registrant's annual report on Form 10-K for the period ended July 1, 2005.

This Form 8-K contains forward-looking statements, including statements concerning the company's ongoing efforts to help ensure adequate supply of key components for its hard drives. These forward-looking statements are based on current management expectations and are subject to risks and uncertainties that could cause actual results to differ materially from those expressed in the forward-looking statements, including: changes in availability and cost of specialized product components; actions by competitors; supply and demand conditions in the hard drive industry; pricing trends and fluctuations in average selling prices (ASPs); and other risks and uncertainties listed in the company's most recent Form 10-Q filed with the SEC. Readers are cautioned not to place undue reliance on these forward-looking statements, which speak only as of the date hereof, and the company undertakes no obligation to update these forward-looking statements to reflect subsequent events or circumstances.
