In connection with the closing of the purchase of the AM Business (see Item 2.01 below), Spansion LLC (“Spansion LLC”), a Delaware limited liability company and a wholly-owned subsidiary of the Spansion Inc. (the “Company”), and Fujitsu Semiconductor Limited, a Japanese corporation (“Seller”) entered into the following agreements:

AM Product Foundry Agreement

On the Closing Date, Spansion LLC and Seller executed an AM Product Foundry Agreement (the “Foundry Agreement”), pursuant to which Seller will exclusively provide certain foundry services for products related to the AM Business (“AM Products”) for certain time periods and subject to certain conditions, extensions and exclusivity termination rights. Buyer has no minimum purchase commitments under the Foundry Agreement.

Subject to certain limitations and exceptions, Seller has agreed to indemnify Spansion from any losses incurred resulting from certain third party claims to the extent the process technology used in connection with the fabrication of the wafers supplied under the Foundry Agreement, or any use or exploitation thereof, infringes intellectual property rights of third parties. Subject to certain limitations and exceptions, Spansion has agreed to indemnify Seller from any losses incurred resulting from certain third party claims to the extent any future AM Products (other than process technologies used in connection with the fabrication of wafers supplied under the Foundry Agreement), or any use or exploitation thereof, infringes any intellectual property rights of third parties.

Either party may at its option terminate the Foundry Agreement, without liability to the other party, in the event that (i) the other party (the “Breaching Party”) fails to correct or cure any material breach by such Breaching Party of any covenant or obligation under the Foundry Agreement within sixty (60) days after receipt by such Breaching Party of a written notice from the non-Breaching Party specifying such breach, (ii) the other party fails to pay its material debts as they come due, makes an assignment for the benefit of creditors (or takes similar action under United States, Japanese or other applicable law), or files a voluntary petition in bankruptcy (or makes a similar filing under United States, Japanese or other applicable law) or otherwise invokes any laws for the protection of debtors under United States, Japanese or other applicable law, or (iii) the other party has filed against it an involuntary petition in bankruptcy (or similar filing under United States, Japanese or other applicable law) and fails to obtain the dismissal of such petition within thirty (30) days after its filing.

The preceding description of the Foundry Agreement is qualified in its entirety by reference to the full text of the Foundry Agreement, which the Company intends to file as an exhibit to its Quarterly Report on Form 10-Q for the quarter ended September 29, 2013.

AM Product Sort Services Agreement

On the Closing Date, Spansion LLC and Seller executed an AM Product Sort Services Agreement (the “Sort Agreement”), pursuant to which Seller will exclusively provide certain probe testing and related services for AM Products for certain time periods and subject to certain conditions, extensions and exclusivity termination rights. Buyer has no minimum purchase commitments under the Sort Agreement.

Either party may at its option terminate the Sort Agreement, without liability to the other party, in the event that (i) the other party (the “Breaching Party”) fails to correct or cure any material breach by such Breaching Party of any covenant or obligation under the Sort Agreement within sixty (60) days after receipt by such Breaching Party of a written notice from the non-Breaching Party specifying such breach, (ii) the other party fails to pay its material debts as they come due, makes an assignment for the benefit of creditors (or takes similar action under United States, Japanese or other applicable law), or files a voluntary petition in bankruptcy (or makes a similar filing under United States, Japanese or other applicable law) or otherwise invokes any laws for the protection of debtors under United States, Japanese or other applicable law, or (iii) the other party has filed against it an involuntary petition in bankruptcy (or similar filing under United States, Japanese or other applicable law) and fails to obtain the dismissal of such petition within thirty (30) days after its filing.

On the Closing Date, Spansion LLC and Seller executed an AM Product Assembly and Test Services Agreement (the “Assembly and Test Agreement”), pursuant to which Seller will exclusively provide certain assembly and test services for AM Products for certain time periods and subject to certain conditions, extensions and exclusivity termination rights. Buyer has no minimum purchase commitments under the Assembly and Test Agreement. Subject to certain limitations and exceptions, Seller has agreed to indemnify Spansion from any losses incurred resulting from certain third party claims to the extent the packaging technology used to perform the assembly and test services under the Assembly and Test Agreement, or any use or other exploitation thereof, infringes intellectual property rights of third parties. Subject to certain limitations and exceptions, Spansion has agreed to indemnify Seller from any losses incurred resulting from certain third party claims to the extent any future AM products (other than packaging technology used to perform assembly and test services under the Assembly and Test Agreement), or any use or exploitation thereof, infringes any intellectual property rights of third parties.

Either party may at its option terminate the Assembly and Test Agreement, without liability to the other party, in the event that (i) the other party (the “Breaching Party”) fails to correct or cure any material breach by such Breaching Party of any covenant or obligation under the Assembly and Test Agreement within sixty (60) days after receipt by such Breaching Party of a written notice from the non-Breaching Party specifying such breach, (ii) the other party fails to pay its material debts as they come due, makes an assignment for the benefit of creditors (or takes similar action under United States, Japanese or other applicable law), or files a voluntary petition in bankruptcy (or makes a similar filing under United States, Japanese or other applicable law) or otherwise invokes any laws for the protection of debtors under United States, Japanese or other applicable law, or (iii) the other party has filed against it an involuntary petition in bankruptcy (or similar filing under United States, Japanese or other applicable law) and fails to obtain the dismissal of such petition within thirty (30) days after its filing.

Subject to certain limitations and exceptions, Spansion has agreed to indemnify Seller from any losses incurred resulting from certain third party claims that AM products purchased, marketed, sold or otherwise distributed under the Distribution Agreement or any manufacturing, assembly, packaging or other processes or technology used to manufacture, assemble, package or otherwise process the AM products, or any use of other exploitation thereof, infringes any intellectual property rights of third parties.

The Distribution Agreement will be effective until the fifth (5th) anniversary of the Closing Date (the “Initial Term”), unless terminated as set forth below. After the expiration of the Initial Term, the term of the Distribution Agreement shall renew automatically for additional one (1) year periods, unless (a) terminated as set forth below, or (b) either Party provides written notice to the other Party of its intention not to renew no later than one hundred eighty (180) days prior to the expiration of the then-current term.

In the event that either party materially defaults in the performance of a material obligation under the Distribution Agreement, then the non-defaulting party may terminate this Agreement upon written notice following a one hundred twenty (120) day cure period.
