Item 5. Other Events

This report describes an event which has no impact on the American Express Company (the company) consolidated financial statements under generally accepted accounting principles (GAAP), including net income or provisions for losses, except for an insignificant impact on GAAP credit reserves at September 30, 2002. The impact of the event on certain managed basis statistics is described below.

During the third quarter of 2002, the company changed the system it uses to track past due card accounts sent to outside collection agencies. As a result of the shift to this new system, there was a delay in capturing data related to accounts that had entered into bankruptcy. Because of the delay in capturing data, some accounts were reported as delinquent at September 30, 2002 instead of being charged-off when they entered into bankruptcy, which is the company's practice. The effect of this delay was corrected during the fourth quarter of 2002.

The table below represents a revision of managed basis information contained in the third quarter 2002 Form 10-Q filed on November 13, 2002 and Form 8-K filed on October 28, 2002. Managed basis information includes both securitized and non-securitized accounts.

company's charge card portfolio was 0.32%, and the actual accounts over 90 days past due were 2.4% at November 30, 2002. For the U.S. Lending portfolio, the actual net write-off rate was 5.8% for the first two months of the fourth quarter and the actual accounts over 30 days past due were 3.3% at November 30, 2002, reflecting the continued weakness in the economy and unemployment rates.

Other Registrants

The delay described above also impacted the American Express Master Trust and the American Express Credit Account Master Trust. The largest impact was to overstate write-offs for November, while understating them for August, September and October. The revisions are reported in separate Form 8-K's being filed today by the Master Trusts.

The delay in capturing data relating to accounts in bankruptcy caused no adjustment to data reported on the September 30, 2002 Form 10-Q for American Express Credit Corporation, a wholly-owned subsidiary of the company.
