Scottish Power plc ("ScottishPower")

Update on THUS' refinancing

On 19 December 2001 we announced that ScottishPower's listed majority owned subsidiary, THUS plc ("THUS"), had agreed the terms of a refinancing which the board of THUS believes would, if successfully completed, leave it in a position to fully finance its business plan through to the point where it becomes cashflow positive. These refinancing arrangements include a new underwritten (Pound)90 million bank facility with The Royal Bank of Scotland, TD Bank Europe Limited and Societe Generale and ScottishPower agreeing to subscribe for approximately (Pound)275 million of new ordinary shares in THUS.

THUS has today announced the full terms of its proposed refinancing ("the THUS Announcement") and is today launching an open offer of approximately 573 million new ordinary shares in THUS at 48p per share to raise approximately (Pound)275 million before expenses. The open offer has been fully underwritten by ScottishPower, which has conditionally agreed to subscribe for up to approximately (Pound)275 million of new ordinary shares before clawback by THUS' independent shareholders. Qualifying THUS independent shareholders will have clawback entitlements over approximately 20.6 percent. of the new ordinary shares. THUS has reserved the right, with the consent of ScottishPower, to seek additional underwriters for part of the open offer.

The proceeds of the open offer will be used by THUS to repay drawings and accrued interest under the ScottishPower facility. All of the ScottishPower facility will be cancelled on completion of the open offer except for a bridging facility of up to a maximum of (Pound)10 million which will remain available until shortly after completion of the proposed demerger. Following completion of the proposed demerger, the bridging facility would be repaid in full and cancelled. Further details of ScottishPower's underwriting obligations are set out in the THUS Announcement.

On 19 December 2001 we also announced that, as a further step in focusing on our international energy and network operations, we believe that following completion of the THUS refinancing it is likely to be in the interests of ScottishPower shareholders if ScottishPower were able to dispose of its shareholding in THUS by way of a demerger to ScottishPower shareholders. ScottishPower intends to put proposals to its shareholders which will enable it to effect such a demerger. It is expected that ScottishPower will announce the demerger terms and timetable on or about 12 February and convene an extraordinary general meeting on or about 11 March with a view to completing the demerger before 31 March 2002. It is expected that the demerger would only proceed if, inter alia, the Court approves the ScottishPower reduction of Share Premium Account and the THUS Scheme of Arrangement.
