operations, lending, capital markets, and finance. Robert Wann will serve as Chief Operating Officer, with Daniel L. Murphy heading up retail operations. James J. O'Donovan will continue to serve as Chief Lending Officer, and Thomas R. Cangemi will continue to head up the capital markets group. Michael P. Puorro will serve as Chief Financial Officer of the combined institution.

Commenting on the integration of the management team, Mr. Ficalora stated, "The management team we're announcing today reflects one of the many merits of this merger: the magnitude of the talent within our respective ranks. While Joe Mancino and I have been the most visible representatives of our respective institutions, we have been supported in our efforts by some of the region's most respected, and most knowledgeable, bank executives. We expect that our customers and investors will be well served as a result of this integration, which will combine the high level of expertise of our respective management teams."

In addition, Mr. Ficalora commented on the increase in New York Community's share repurchase authorization, which was announced with the signing of the merger agreement. "Of the five million shares we are authorized to repurchase over the next twelve months, 1.1 million are remaining from the Board of Directors' November 2002 authorization and 3.9 million are from the authorization approved by our Board on June 26, 2003. Under the terms of our agreement, both we and Roslyn have the ability to purchase our own or the other's stock, as market conditions suggest."
